

Happenings in the Meadows

Highlights

The cold weather and snow is finally here!

The holidays were a bit different this year without the snow...but not to worry; snowflakes are definitely in our forecast for January! All of our decorations around the building brightly shined through the season. We will be taking Christmas decorations down January 6th and 7th.

As we prepare for the year ahead, be sure to keep in mind how blessed we all have been in the years past. The adversities we've faced have made us the people that we are today. I wish you all a beautiful year full of joy and kindness!
